Young Leaguer's Feature Kevin Baker

Written by Rebecca Freeman

Kevin Baker always had an interest in politics which motivated him to join the League of Women Voters in October of 2017. Once he became involved, he was quite impressed with how the organization has organized its mission to encourage participation to make democracy work. Kevin enjoys being a member for many reasons, including learning about new topics and educating the public through his presentations.

Kevin serves on the social media team for the Young Leaguers. You can often find Kevin with a camera in his hand and a smile on his face. Photography is a real passion of his. In fact, through White House Press Pool, Kevin has successfully photographed three presidents. He also has created a side business where he sells pictures of birds in flight at local festivals and art shows.

Inside and outside of Young Leaguers, Baker is dedicated to community service. He started a 501c3 non-profit organization called FlaminGoCon, Inc with the goal of bringing board gaming to students, and disadvantaged populations. As treasurer and one of the founders, he has hosted numerous conventions consisting of a full day of board games. Kevin's favorite Young Leaguers projects so far have been participating in Women Build with Habitat for Humanity of Palm Beach County and the recent 4th of July Party for the families at the Quantum House.

Kevin helps make democracy work every day not only by being a Young Leaguer but also as a precinct captain, and a member of the LWV Forum Committee. We are fortunate to have him on our team, and we are thankful for his service to the community.

"The Young Leaguers are the generational change that will carry the fight forward and I want to encourage that quest."
